

CLAIMS

CLAIM 1 (original)

What I claim

- 1 a system which consists of a pair of short chains from two to six inches in length which use different-sized findings to connect the ends of a necklace or bracelet
- 2 one short chain has a small finding on one side which hooks into the small O ring of the piece of jewelry
- 3 at the other end of that short chain is a large finding
- 4 the other short chain has a large O ring on its left side
- 5 on its other side is a small O ring into which the small finding of the jewelry hooks
- 6 the shorter chain is the bracelet extender
- 7 the longer chain is the necklace extender

REMARKS

I have enclosed a copy of a response to a an earlier communication from your office. As you can see I have always described one claim in my application. Two versions are listed one longer than the other. Their different lengths form two versions: one for use with a bracelet and the other with a necklace.
